"In an ever-changing food-landscape, I am on a mission to meet the very farmers, fisherman and global personalities that help us define and distinguish culture on our plates." - Michael-Ann Rowe

Michael-Ann Rowe is the host of Off the Beaten Palate, a food & travel documentary series from Detroit Public TV. She is also a free-lance food stylist with Esquire Magazine and menu consultant. Understanding culture through food is the backbone of Off the Beaten Palate.
